Fire damage

Extensive fire damage was done to a storage shed owned by Chapel Hill Funeral Home. The blaze broke out in the locked garage at 1129 N. Galena Ave. shortly before noon Friday. Cause of the fire remained undetermined. Company officials said a lawnmower and miscellaneous equipment was lost in the fire. Funeral cars, normally parked inside the garage, were being used at the time. No estimate of damage was available. Firemen from Dixon City and Dixon Rural Fire Departments were called to extinguish the blaze. (Telegraph Photo)

Helicopter escape is success so far

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — For Dale Otto Remling, bad-check artist and pig thief, the Great 'Copter Caper' is a success so far. He continued to elude police today after escaping from the world's largest walled prison in a hijacked helicopter.

State Police said today they have released an unemployed Fowlerville man who had been accused of piloting the helicopter used to pluck Remling from Southern Michigan Prison Friday.

State troopers released Donald Hill, 23, after questioning him most of the night. Officers said Hill "had been absolved of any responsibility" in the caper. He had been charged with kidnapping.

Still held is Jolyne Lou Conn, 32, of Weberville, on a charge of aiding and abetting the escape. And police said they were looking for a Gertrude Woodbury, who reportedly drove the getaway car.

Meanwhile, troopers said two other unidentified women were arrested in Livingston County and would be charged with aiding and abetting the escape. Their supposed roles in the escapade were not given.

The commandeered copter fluttered into a rear portion of the yard at the massive prison Friday and Remling sprang aboard for a flight to a getaway car.

The caper was remarkably similar to an escape in the movie "Breakout," in which a helicopter is used to pull off a prison break. The movie is, in turn, based on a real-life escape in Mexico.

The movie stars Charles Bronson, who was a willing pilot. Richard Jackson, the pilot in Friday's escape, was pressed into service with a knife at his throat.

Remling, 46, was serving six to 10 years for a 1973 conviction for check fraud. He is also under a seven-year sentence in Nebraska for the theft of 260 pigs.

According to authorities, this is what happened:

Jackson, who was laid off from his job as a pilot, was called back to work because of a heavy passenger schedule, and lifted off with a passenger from Mettetal Airport at Plymouth, Mich., at about 11 a.m. Friday. Soon after takeoff the passenger pulled a knife and ordered him to fly to the prison.

"The guy was a little nervous," Jackson said. "I didn't want to push it. I tried to make a Mayday call when he pulled the knife, but he pulled the (microphone) jacks out."

Jackson, 29, flew the three-passenger helicopter low toward the prison, circled it once — missing the landing area — and then popped up over the wall and set down near the prison license plate plant on grass Remling had marked with a red handkerchief. The plant is not guarded but is monitored by television cameras.

Remling, on a lunch break from his job as a shoeshine boy at the plant, leaped aboard. Jackson said he muttered, "Thanks."

"I think we're going to make it," the skyjacker replied.

The aircraft took off and headed north, unseen until it was out of rifle range. The nearest watch tower was 300 yards away.

"The place is so damned big, something could happen at one end and you wouldn't know about it until you read it in the newspaper," said Capt. Lee McCoy of the prison staff.

Jackson let the pair off near Munith, six miles away, where the skyjacker sprayed his face with Mace, a disabling chemical. They tried to pay Jackson with a $100 bill, but he refused the money, and they took off in two cars.

Police said Jackson was blinded briefly by the chemical but took off again to search for the men. He tracked a car, and led police to Mrs. Conn, who apparently led officers to Hill.

Irwin Winkler producer of "Breakout," said of the escape: "We might have given the hijacker the idea. If you saw the commercials on television for the film, they showed a man getting into a helicopter and being plucked from jail."

But he said no hijacking was mentioned. The film was based loosely on a real-life Mexican prison escape by millionaire Joel Kaplan.

There are 57 acres inside walls at the Jackson prison. The pickup occurred in what is called "the back 40," where electronic devices maintain security, Johnson said. The prison has an inmate population of 3,245.

Naylor to attend landfill meeting

AMBOY — Dixon Mayor William Naylor will attend the special public meeting on landfill problems which is being held at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Amboy City Hall.

Mayor Kenneth McCracken said that he talked to Naylor Friday and that the Dixon mayor indicated he would be present for the meeting, which McCracken has called to give the public an opportunity to learn about the landfill operation and to discuss problems and concerns of the proposed expansion of the project to include dumping of hazardous materials at the site.

McCracken stated that Fire Chief Ken Spitz will be present and that the operator of the landfill and EPA representatives have been invited to attend, in an effort to inform the public on the matter.

Assumed from start CIA report would be bared, says Nessen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential spokesman Ron Nessen said today he had assumed from the beginning that the Rockefeller Commission report on its investigation of Central Intelligence Agency activities would be made public "and I have heard nothing that changes that assumption."

Nessen said President Ford has been reading the voluminous report given him Friday and "I expect a decision on releasing it next week."

Nessen said Ford would make the decision on releasing the report.

Nessen also announced that Ford will hold a news conference at 7:30 p.m. EDT Monday, outdoors in the White House Rose Garden, if the weather permits.

Earlier, the chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee said he thought the Rockefeller Commission was ducking the controversial issue of assassination while a White House official said the President is not prepared to second guess the Kennedy administration.

Nessen, at today's briefing for reporters, appeared to be trying to jettison an impression in some quarters after his Friday briefing that the report might not be made public.

"All of our difficulties yesterday stemmed from the fact that some people prematurely announced a decision which the President has not yet made," Nessen said.

Asked whether he meant that Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller misspoke himself in saying the report would be released, Nessen replied that it had "always been our assumption that the decision would be made by the President after he read the report."

The President would finish reading it over the weekend, Nessen said.

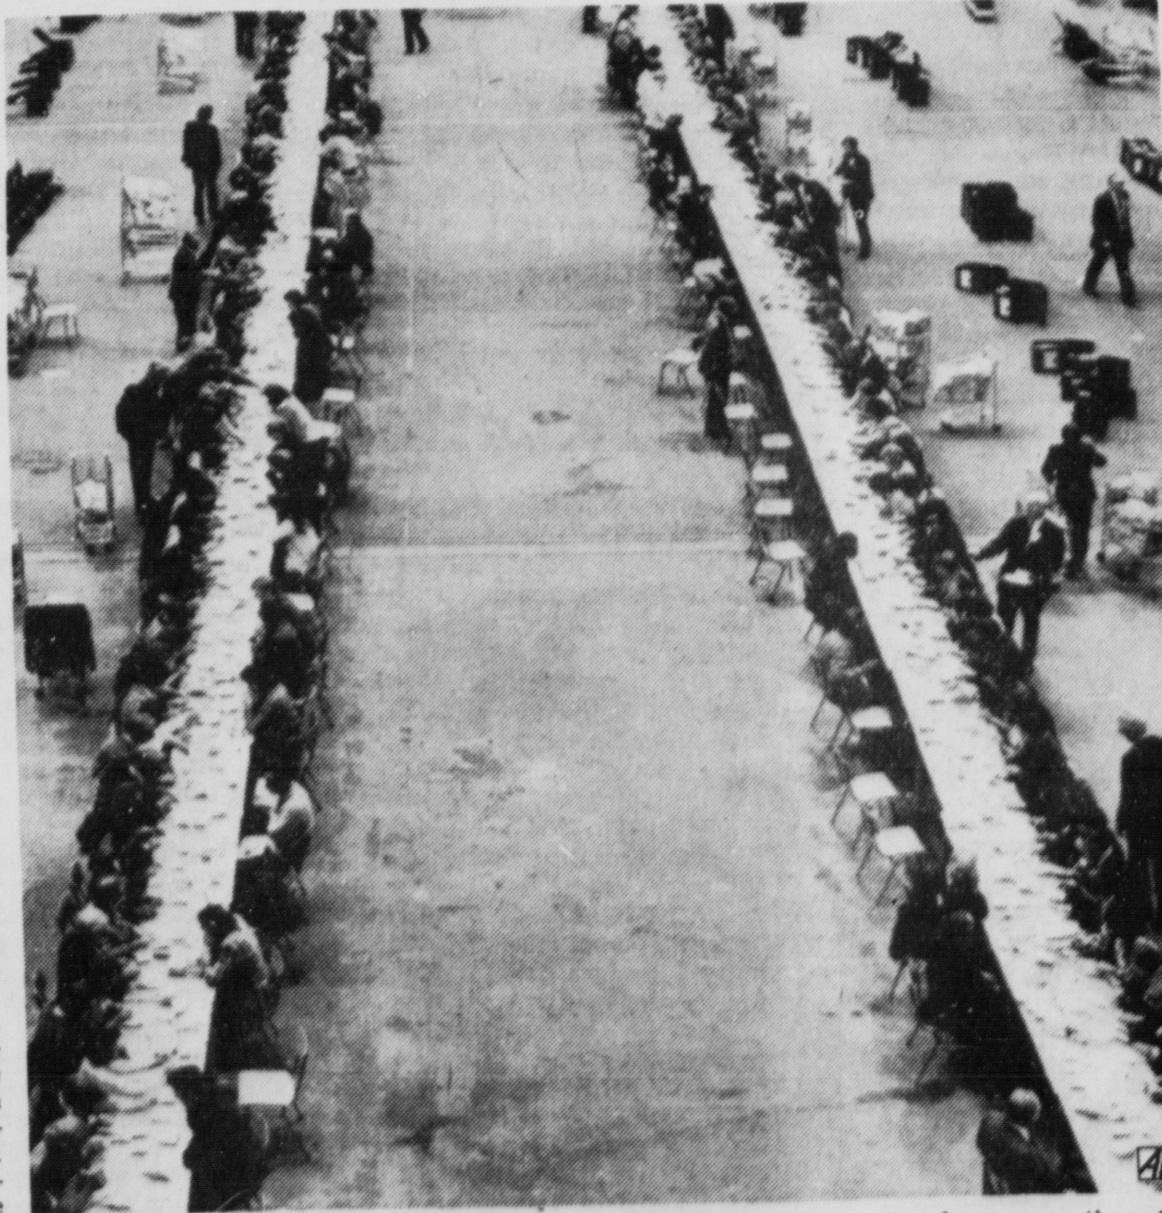

The White House official who commented on the assassination report, asking that he not be named, said "those were difficult times."

This was a reference to alleged CIA efforts to kill Cuban Premier Fidel Castro during the early 1960s. "Nobody here is going to second guess an administration of 15 years ago," the official said.

The official's comments were offered in explanation of the unexpected decision to delete any discussion of CIA involvement in assassinations or plots from the Rockefeller Commission report which was delivered to Ford on Friday.

Ford promised that the report, which deals with alleged domestic spying by the CIA, would be used to make sure U.S. intelligence agencies obey the law in the future, but there was no official promise that the report would be made public.

"The President will read it and then decide whether to make it public."

Belgium chooses U.S. jet over French one

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Belgium today selected the American-built YF16 over the French Mirage F1, making the General Dynamics Corp. lightweight fighter likely to become the biggest seller in the history of aviation.

Belgian Premier Leo Tindemans announced the decision to take 102 of the American planes over the French plane. With European allies Denmark, Norway and the Netherlands already decided to follow the Belgian decision, the value of the contracts involved is estimated at $2 billion. But sales to other countries could boost sales to an estimated $12 billion.

General Dynamics Board Chairman David F. Lewis, in Paris for an international air show, said through a spokesman that the decision was "a great day" not only for the company and the United States, but also for the western alliance.

But French Premier Jacques

Chirac, in a speech to 4,000 guests at an official luncheon at the Paris air show, said, "We were very disappointed by this decision and the government will now take whatever action is necessary to support the momentum of the French aeronautics industry."

Dassault Aircraft Co., the maker of the Mirage, said the loss of the contract means a big drop in business but will not affect jobs or French technological advances.

Dassault president Claude Benno-Vallieres commented, "This was never an economic or industrial affair, but just political. I can only regret that Europe has not chosen a European solution."

The exact reasons for the choice of the American plane were not immediately available, but the smaller cost of the American plane, the use of European facilities to assemble some of the planes and a reported U.S. offer to buy $30 million worth of Belgian guns were considered to be factors in the decision.

Tindemans spoke to reporters after a 3½-hour special cabinet meeting. Belgium originally had been expected to order 116 of the American planes to replace aging American-built Starfighters. But he said he was reserving the price of the other 14 planes—about $84 million—for a research and development fund for a European aircraft industry.

Belgium and its NATO allies formed a consortium that agreed to take the same plane to increase military efficiency and cut costs.

The Netherlands decided to buy 84, with an option on another 18. Norway plans to buy 72. Denmark is taking 48, with an option on another 10. The only thing holding up the deal was the Belgian decision, which came today.

The American plane costs $6.1 million, slightly less than its French rival. Tindemans' government had been under heavy pressure to buy the French plane for the sake of European unity.

Tindemans said that in view of the present situation the Belgian government does not want to be the cause of a considerable weakening in the security of Europe.

Disappointment was expressed by Francois Perin, the Belgian minister for institutional reform. He belongs to the Rassemblement Wallon, a small group that had been threatening to quit the government and bring about its resignation.

"I do not intend to go against the government," he said after the cabinet meeting.

Belgium's decision came at the second cabinet meeting on the matter this week. The cabinet failed to reach a decision on Wednesday when Defense Minister Paul Vanden Boeynants returned from a trip to Washington where he discussed the deal with Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger.

Vanden Boeynants had favored the F1 but joined defense ministers from the other three allies in backing the American plane as cheaper and superior.

The four decided to buy the same plane in order to cut costs and increase fighting efficiency in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The U.S. Air Force said it wants to buy 650 of YF16s and will station many of them in Western Europe, assuring that there will be widespread facilities for maintenance.

There was a last minute hitch when the Rassemblement Wallon, the smallest party in the cabinet, threatened to quit the government unless Belgium bought the French plane. But the cabinet source said that so far there had been no question of any resignations.

Premier Leo Tindemans is to go before parliament Tuesday to defend the government's decision.

The four NATO allies were expected to buy a total of 350 YF16s to replace their F104s which are wearing out.

General Dynamics said it hoped to eventually produce as many as 3,000 of the 1,500-mile-an-hour planes.

Collision of bus and logging truck injures congressmen

HAMILTON, Ga. (AP) — Secretary of the Army Howard H. "Bo" Callaway and four congressmen have been injured in the collision of a logging truck and a bus that killed both drivers and left 11 persons hospitalized.

The bus was en route from the Columbus, Ga., airport to Callaway Gardens, a resort founded by Callaway's father, when it collided with the truck during a heavy rain Friday.

Witnesses said many of the seats on the bus were ripped from their fastenings and the passengers hurled forward. Callaway, who suffered a small facial cut, said it took 45 minutes to free some of the victims.

None of the 11 passengers hospitalized was reported in serious condition. The crash killed truck driver Glenn Harley of Union Springs, Ala., and bus driver Roy McKinney.

Callaway, the congressmen and others on the bus, many of them military men, were in Georgia to attend the dedication of the West Point Dam, an Army Corps of Engineers project on the Alabama-Georgia border.

Officials said the dedication would be held as scheduled today and Callaway said he still planned to officiate.

"I feel like I've been playing football all day and lost," Callaway said several hours after the crash.

Dixon woman dies in motorcycle crash

ROCK FALLS — A Dixon woman was killed and another Lee County resident injured early today in a motorcycle accident at Fifth Ave. and U.S. 30 in Rock Falls.

Pronounced dead on arrival at Community General Hospital was Mrs. Jaylee D. Scott, 19, 1103 Mary Ave. She was a passenger on a motorcycle driven by Robert W. Smith, 24, Nelson. Smith was listed in fair condition this morning at Community General in the intensive care unit.

Rock Falls Police said a second motorcyclist involved in the accident, Mike Holbrook, 26, Rt. 3, Sterling, was released following treatment. Officers said the two motorcycles collided with a car driven by Eugene Help, 51, Rock Falls. Help, who was released following hospital treatment, was charged by police with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Investigation into the accident was continuing.

Funeral services for Mrs. Scott will be held Monday, with visitation Sunday at Melvin Funeral Home, Sterling, from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. She was born Aug. 9, 1955, in Princeton, the daughter of Jack and Joan Price Walters. A member of First Baptist Church in Sterling, she was employed at Dixon State School.

Survivors include her mother, Mrs. Joan Walters, Sterling; one brother, Gilbert Walters, Sterling; one sister, Mrs. Justina Hayes, Longview, Tex.; and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Garnett Price, Deer Grove.

Smoke bombs tossed at Jefferson

Perhaps it was the last day of school that prompted the throwing of three smoke bombs at Jefferson School on Friday. In any event, firemen from Dixon City and Dixon Rural departments were called to the school after reports of smoke in the east corridor were telephoned in to fire headquarters. No damage was done in the incident and officials had no clue as to who threw the smoke bombs.

Earlier Friday firemen were called to the school to extinguish a fire which erupted in a trash container.

We forget how U.S. became great

By EZRA TAFT BENSON
Salt Lake City, Utah

There seems to be a growing spirit of doubt and cynicism in our beloved country. No doubt there is reason for much of this. You hear people say, "Whom can we trust?" They refer to leaders in government in unfavorable terms.

I quote from the Oct. 14, 1974, issue of U.S. News & World Report, "So-called middle Americans now find themselves disillusioned and enmeshed in anxieties of many kinds.

"An economic surge that brought unparalleled advances in means and status during the 1960s has turned sour on them as inflation erodes their savings, their plans for educating their children, and their own security in old age.

"Within the ranks of the Middle class itself, uncertainties are growing.

"Staff members of U.S. News & World Report, touring the nation to find how voters are leaning, report huge numbers of people angered and disillusioned by Government—the most cynical attitude in years, and spreading fast."

America is a very special land ... a land I love with all my heart.

Americans have marched a long way down the soul-destroying road to atheism and totalitarianism.

It is the price we pay when we turn away from God and turn to government to do everything for us.

It is the formula by which nations become enslaved by their own leaders.

As England's Lord Acton so succinctly put it, "Power tends to corrupt—but absolute power corrupts absolutely." (Essays on Freedom and Power, p. 364).

Increasing numbers of Americans today are subscribing to the myth that you can get something for nothing—as long as the government is footing the bill. In fact, they believe it is the duty of government to take care of them, from the cradle to the grave.

There is no such thing as a free lunch. Everything we get from the government—EVERYTHING—we pay for in debilitating taxes. Everything the government GIVES to the people, it must first TAKE from the people. This is something few Americans appear to understand.

We tend to forget how America became the greatest, most prosperous and powerful nation in the world, blessed with an abundance of everything needed for the good life.

It didn't just happen. It wasn't an accident. It was all an integral part of the divine plan for America. In the early frontier days of this country, a special breed of men and women came from all over the world, seeking not only opportunity, but FREEDOM. They were strong, proud, and fiercely independent. They believed that the surest helping hand was at the end of their own sleeves. They shared one thing in common—an unshakable faith in God, and in themselves. And that, without doubt, is the secret of success as viable today as it was yesterday.

With little but raw courage and indomitable purpose, those intrepid pioneers set forth into the unknown by covered wagon, on horseback, and sometimes on foot.

The land demanded iron met with steel in their backbones. Nature did the weeding out. But they didn't whine or bleat because things were tough. They asked no favors from any man. They knew what they were up against, and they accepted the challenge. All they wanted was to be left alone to do what had to be done. They were wrenching a civilization out of the wilderness.

America soon blossomed into a rich, fertile, productive nation. Individual initiative—free enterprise—paid off, and American ingenuity flourished in a climate of freedom. Very soon, our technology, our inventiveness, and our business know-how became the envy of the world. America had reached maturity ... a giant among nations, a glowing example of FREE ENTERPRISE in action, and a perfect demonstration of what FREE men can do when they are left alone to do it.

But, as those affluent years slipped by, voices were heard in the land ... singing the siren songs of socialism. And many Americans tapped their feet to the beat of the music. Politicians were already promising something for nothing ... that elusive free lunch. Thus, gradually, the people let the government infringe upon their precious freedoms ... and the preliminary signs of decay began to appear in our young Republic.

Today, as government becomes increasingly dominant in our affairs, we are becoming more and more like ancient Rome before it crumbled and collapsed.

We are choosing bread and circuses instead of facing the challenges that always TEST a free people. We are no longer the proud leader of the world. We have lost the respect of almost every country ... through our policies of equivocation, and our politics of expediency and appeasement. We think we are buying world peace. This is not diplomacy, it is national suicide! No wonder we have earned the contempt of our enemies, who are only too happy to take our money.

We are in this position because we have lost our national pride, our sense of independence. When we want something done, we go crawling to the government instead of doing it ourselves. We have exchanged those God-inspired principles upon which this once mighty nation was built, for a mess of shoddy values. No wonder our structures of freedom are cracking.

Our economic situation, I believe, is extremely serious. The facts are harsh and cold. This is a grim topic. But how can one soften the truth? Inflation, like an insidious disease, is weakening us.

The blame for inflation must be laid directly at the door of the Federal Government itself. Inflation is an increase in the nation's money supply—an increase, to be more exact, in the supply of money and credit.

Inflation is not caused by rising prices and wages. To the contrary, rising prices and wages, as any solid economist knows, are the direct result of inflation.

In a free society, such as ours, only the Federal Government can cause inflation. And the reason it puts more money into circulation is to finance its disastrous policies of deficit spending.

As the Federal Government promotes more and more costly and unnecessary problems, it spends far more than it receives. So ... to keep in business, the government has to borrow. To do this it offers bonds, which are purchased mainly by private banks. Many of these bonds are resold to the Federal Reserve. The Federal Reserve then issues newly printed paper money—or issues credit to pay for the bonds. Thus, new money is created ... and the money supply is increased ... and the value of ALL money is reduced.

It is well to remember that continued government deficits cause inflation; inflation is used as an excuse for ineffective price controls; price controls lead to shortages; artificial shortages inevitably are used as an excuse to implement rationing. When will we learn these basic economic principles?

The Prophet Isaiah wrote: "Therefore my people are gone into captivity, because they have no knowledge." (Isa. 5:13)

It is quite obvious that a lack of knowledge and understanding on the part of Americans regarding the causes of inflation, which threaten our economic survival, could well lead us into captivity.

Despite what many say and think, the cold war continues today and inflation is the main weapon in the cold war arsenal of our enemies.

John Maynard Keynes, the notorious homosexual Fabian Socialist, who sold President Franklin D. Roosevelt on the damnable deficit spending theory, had this to say about inflation:

"Lenin is said to have declared that the best way to destroy the Capitalist System was to debauch the currency. By a continuing process of inflation, governments can confiscate, secretly and unobserved, an important part of the wealth of their citizens ... Lenin was certainly right. There is no subtler, no surer means of overturning the existing basis of society than to debauch the currency. The process engages all the hidden forces of economic law on the side of destruction, and does it in a manner which no one man in a million is able to diagnose." (Economic Consequences of the Peace, pp. 235, 236, 1920)

It is interesting to note that Vladimir Lenin praised Keynes before the Second Congress of the Communist International as being "more striking and more instructive" than any of his home-grown Communist revolutionaries.

Finding answers to old problems

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The United States could well profit from the example of the saber tooth tiger.

This animal is extinct. It was unable to adapt to new conditions.

Recently collected data demonstrates that this same inability to adjust to change is growing at an alarming rate in both industry and government.

There's a noticeable lag in shifting direction to cope with new discoveries in science and technology.

This is costly in that billions are poured into obsolete systems. And dangerous in that it weakens our defenses and industry's ability to compete. Economically it breeds inflation and slows the rate at which wages and profits grow. And it leads to dangerous shortages—in energy, for one.

Take an example which few talk about, the estimated $2 billion being poured into the first liquid metal fast-breeder reactor.

This started out as an exceedingly worthwhile, if expensive, project. It was clear from the beginning that we would run short of petroleum eventually. Conventional nuclear power plants use uranium at far too rapid a rate. That something had to be done was recognized here, in Japan and in Western Europe.

Until recently it appeared, at least to many of those concerned, that research and development in the breeder reactor, which turns out nuclear fuel as a byproduct, would be worth every cent of the $2 billion cost of the first projected demonstration power plant.

But science moves on. Of late it has become clear that lasers could be used effectively for the efficient separation of substances—especially economical relatively when the substance to be separated is one part in 140, and even more so when the separation involves extracting one part in 5,000.

This changes the nuclear power picture. It now makes the separation of fuel needed for the heavy water reactor so cheap that this "simpler" form of nuclear power producer seems much more feasible for the intermediate future than the more complicated liquid metal fast breeder type. It stretches the available uranium 10 times, meaning that supplies will probably last 100 years or so. By then, presumably, we will have developed a fusion reactor or some other type using even cheaper fuels.

The time has come, therefore, to cut back sharply on the exceedingly expensive liquid metal fast breeder reactor development and divert hundreds of millions of dollars of this money into more promising fields.

But the government and the scientific community are showing great reluctance to even consider such a cutback. Too many top flight men are committed to the program. Prestige is at stake.

This is but one example. In Washington there are dozens more projects of great magnitude and hundreds of middle and minor cutbacks and shifts which should be carried out immediately to take advantage of new knowledge.

But before we too quickly jeer at Washington, we had better look to our own local private industries where reluctance to change is frequently equally great, leading to higher prices, higher unemployment and to products which are not of the quality we should be getting.

In some cases the research is available and the required engineering known. In other cases, the new research lines are not being followed because the university and company laboratories are too busy following research dominated by "last year's" knowledge ... or even the knowledge of a decade ago.

Voice of the people

To the Editor:

During the past month we have endeavored to bring the public's attention to the roles that speaking, hearing, and the use of language play in our lives and about the professions of speech pathology and audiology in providing services to the communicatively handicapped.

Several organizations and individuals aided us in our month's activity and to the following we extend our appreciation: the Dixon Public Library for the book display; Mr. Stanley Weber, superintendent of schools, for his support of our infant hearing screening clinic; Mr. David Edelson, superintendent of Dixon State School, for allowing the use of audiological equipment for the hearing screening clinic. The Dixon National Bank and radio stations WIXN and WSDR aided in spot announcements as did Dixon Cable TV. A special thanks to Mr. Robert Nellis and the staff of the Dixon Evening Telegraph for the publication of our weekly series of articles on the profession and communication problems. Rehabilitation of those individuals who experience some type of speech, language or hearing handicap is the purpose of those engaged in speech pathology and audiology. Our concern extends beyond one month out of a year, but through the cooperative efforts of individuals and organizations such as those above, we are able to give special emphasis to an important human problem.

Sincerely,
Ron Grusy, for the Dixon area group of Speech Pathologists and Audiologists

Uncontrollable -- not out of control

NEW YORK—Expenditures classified as "relatively uncontrollable" in the federal budget can in fact be brought under control in future years through modification of existing laws. The essential ingredient is a demonstration of will and discipline on the part of the Congress and the Executive, working together.

This is the hopeful finding of Tax Foundation in a new research study, "Uncontrollable Federal Budget Outlays," released today.

Uncontrollable federal expenditures are 75 per cent of the proposed budget for 1976. The amount is $261 billion, the study notes.

Further, "the growth in uncontrollable outlays has accelerated dramatically in recent years, to the point where such spending has been rising at a faster rate than Federal receipts, and more rapidly than the rate of growth of the whole economy," it states.

Tax Foundation defines "uncontrollable" as applying to those budget outlays over which neither the Executive nor Congress can exercise effective control during the year ahead under existing law.

By far the largest amounts in this accelerating growth, both in amount and as a proportion of total uncontrollables, are those for "payments for individuals." Such payments rise to an estimated $165.1 billion in 1976, up from 1967's actual outlay of $41.8 billion. That's 63.3 per cent of total uncontrollables, up from 44.6 per cent nine years ago.

So phenomenal is the growth in domestic assistance programs, payments for individuals, that the government has been described as a massive transfer agent, collecting dollars from some groups of people and then paying out those dollars to other groups of people.

But "uncontrollable" does not necessarily mean "out of control." There are in fact several ways the government can control the uncontrollable budget outlays and they are spelled out in the 36-page study released today. It lists 10 "handles" which may be grasped by the government to cope with the problem. These include:

Require that new programs be accompanied by tax increases or offsetting reductions in other programs;

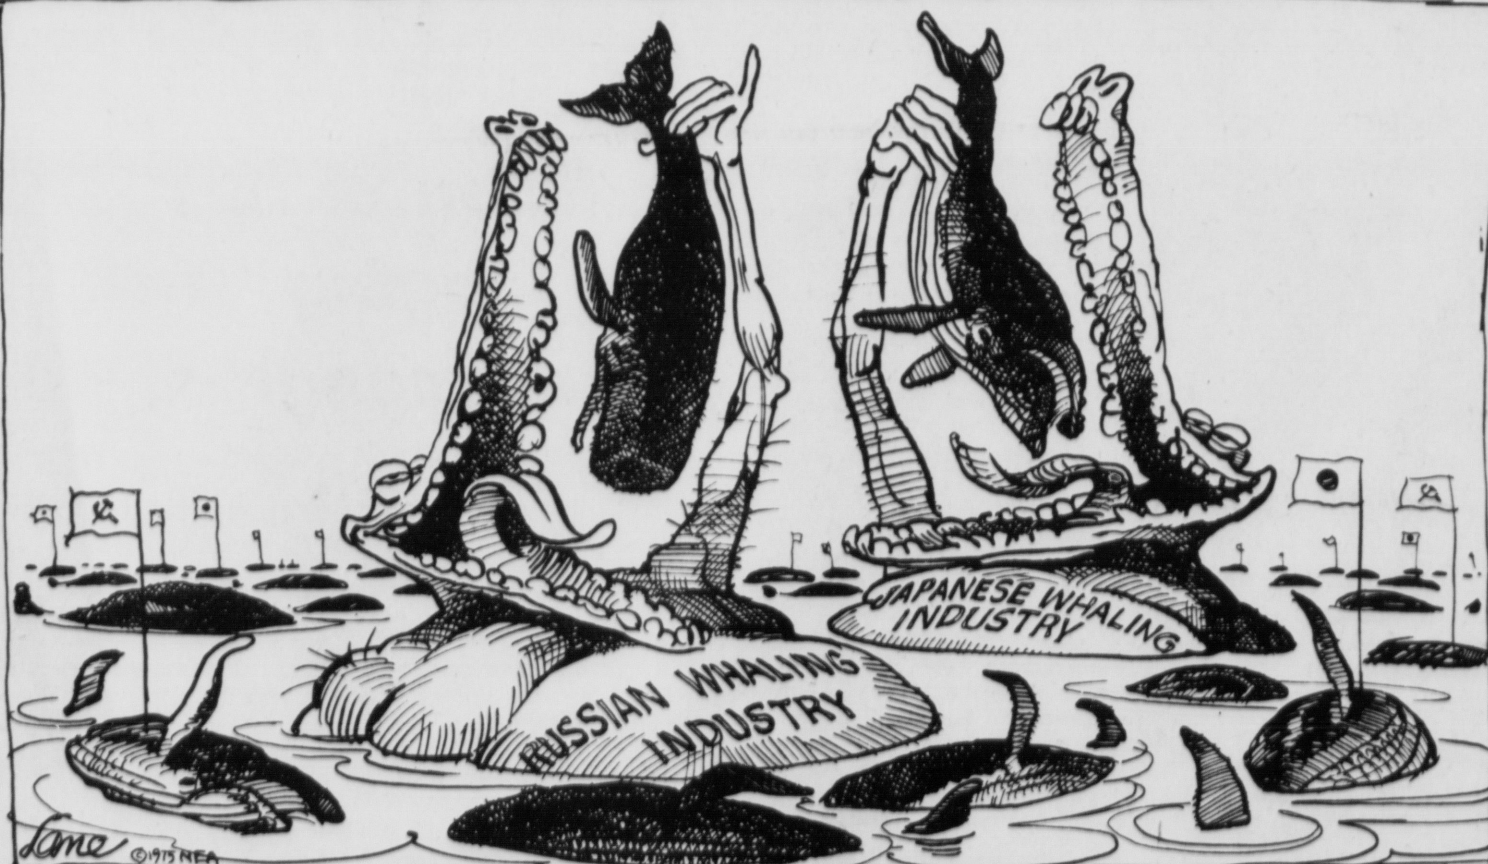

Avoid establishment of new programs in a form which restricts annual review through the regular budgetary process;

Put back in the budget Federal programs and activities now in an off-budget status;

Limit the use of automatic escalators in benefit programs.

A recent study of the Congressional Joint Economic Committee reached the "unavoidable conclusion" that most programs that are included in the regular budget review process increase relatively little and there are some important declines, while uncontrollable programs and those that are not included in the regular budget at all show major increases, the study notes.

Virtually all the items that appear as uncontrollable could over the long run become controllable through modification of existing laws, it adds.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE D-678: Mark D., aged 16, lives on a farm.

"Dr. Crane," his mother began, "Mark is active in the Young People's Society of our village church."

"In fact, he was elected President of it last month."

"And our pastor is trying to recruit a number of teen-agers to attend a church camp, where they will spend a week."

"There they will receive inspirational talks every morning by specially talented youth leaders."

"Mark would like to go and feels it is doubly his duty, since he is now the head of the Young People's Society."

"But his daddy grumbles, saying he needs Mark on the farm, for he is short-handed right now and we have over 400 acres of land."

"Dr. Crane, can you give me some good arguments to use on his daddy?"

Bravo, Church Camps
Yes, Mark's father should realize that he is lucky to have a son who is not a hippie or drug addict but is devoting his spare time to constructive religious youth work.

Besides, the week at camp will not ruin the farm's crops! Dad can work a little longer hours to make up for his son's absence.

Or hire another teen-ager to run Mark's tractor.
Even Mamma can be his substitute, for farm wives usually work in the fields during the rush season.

But in the middle teens our young people reach the peak of their religious idealism.

That's the critical time to nurture such high moral resolves.

Moreover, these church camps are staffed with especially trained leaders who know how to appeal to youthful idealists.

The usual clergyman has a mixed audience on Sunday, consisting of crying babies, kiddies, teen-agers, young married couples, the middle-aged and the Senior Citizens.

So the typical pastor tries to slant his sermon to this heterogeneous audience, hoping to interest them all.

But the church camp speakers have a homogeneous congregation of teen-agers, who think much alike and thus respond far better to the inspirational addresses they will receive.

Besides, Mark has already shown his leadership qualities, or he would not now be head of his church Young People's Society.

His father should aid Mark in continuing as a trained leader, for such early tutelage bears rich fruit in many ways.

One of America's most famous orators, Albert J. Beveridge, held a U.S. Senate seat for many years.

When asked how he became such a superb public speaker, he replied:

"Well, I was active in the Young People's Society of my church and later its state organization."

"So that's where I learned my public speaking."

Good parents should thus make extra sacrifices when their children are obviously lined up with constructive organizations where they will later become topnotch leaders in society.

Church camps tutor young people so they also return to their home churches to invest that new training in rejuvenating the sluggish local congregations.

Mrs. Crane and I attended such church camps in our youth and our five Crane children spent several summers apiece therein!

Homemade Ice Cream for super flavor and fun

Your very own ice cream is fun to make and tastes like nothing else you've ever had. It's especially good to make it in the good old summertime when there's a wealth of fruit and berries.

For peach ice cream perfection, mash the peaches as fine as possible while still retaining some of the original character. This gives an even distribution of the fruit in the ice cream as well as a better texture. Mashing the fruit will also prevent the dasher blades from clogging.

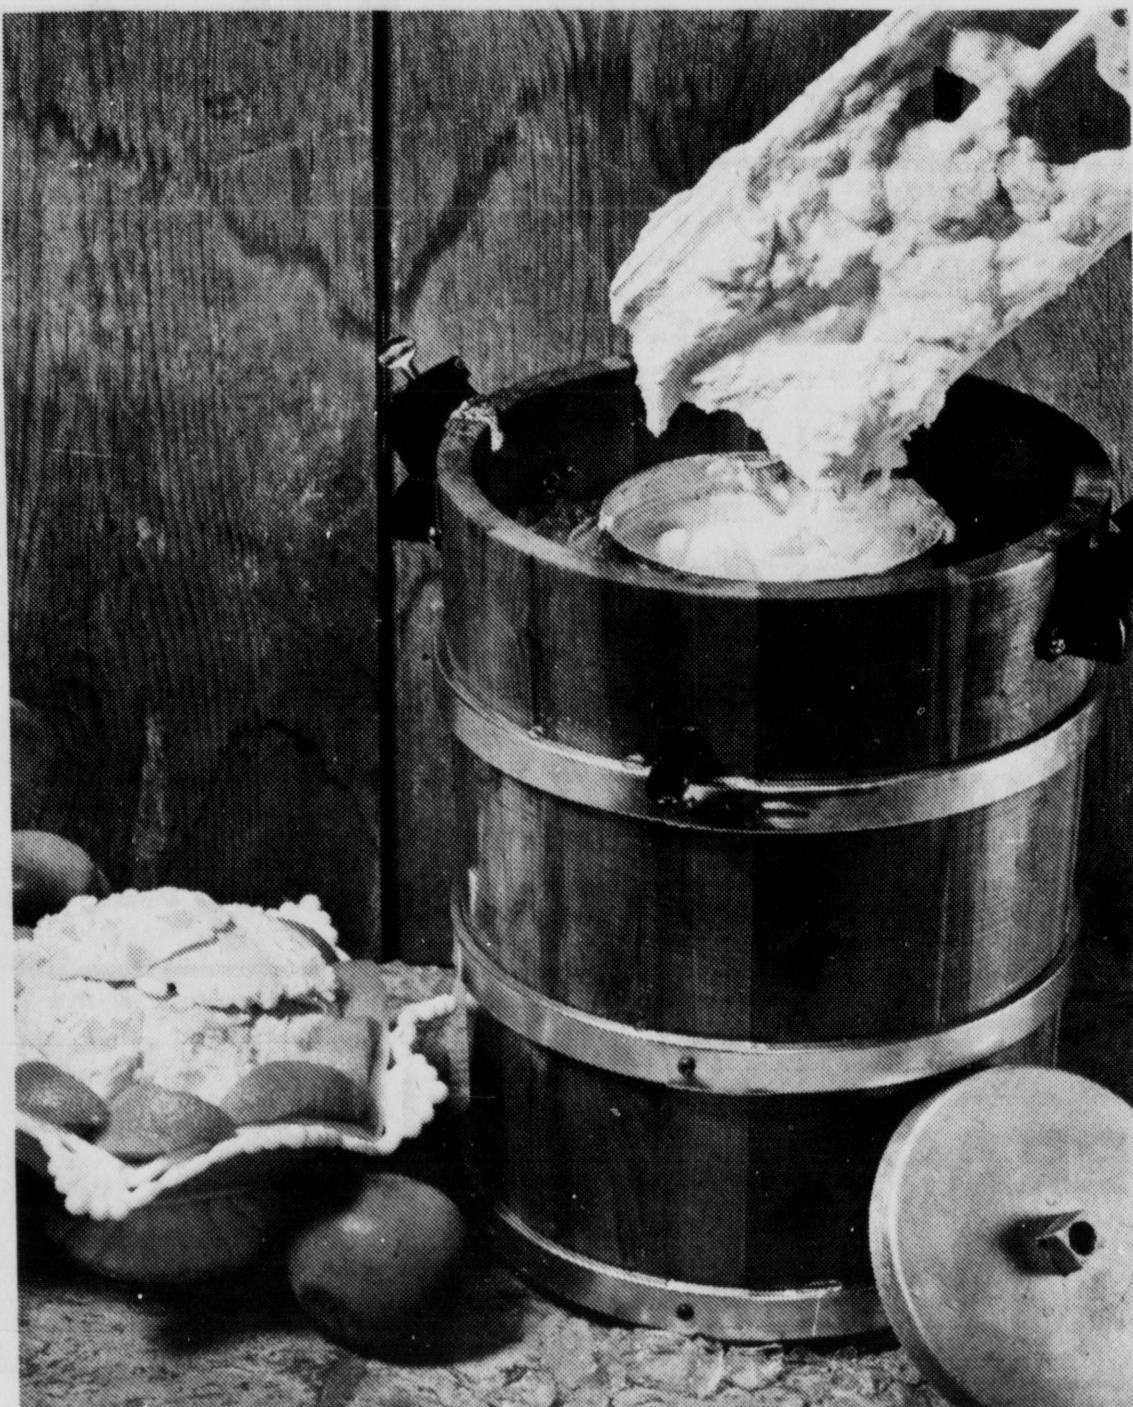

PEACH BUTTERMILK ICE CREAM

- 1 tablespoon (1 envelope) unflavored gelatin
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 cups buttermilk
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 4 cups whipping cream
- 1 tablespoon vanilla extract
- 2 cups mashed fresh peaches
- 1/4 cup sugar

In saucepan combine gelatin, sugar and buttermilk.

Dissolve gelatin and sugar over low heat, stir occasionally. Gradually add hot mixture to egg, stirring constantly. Stir in salt, cream and vanilla. Combine mashed peaches and sugar; add to mixture. Chill. Churn-freeze.

NOTE: If fresh peaches are not available, mashed, canned freestone peaches may be used. Do not add sugar to peaches. Regular milk may be substituted for buttermilk in the recipe. Yield: approximately 3 quarts.

June is for spooning homemade peach ice cream into a dish with more peaches or what-have-you. Take the ice-and-salt-packed ice cream out to picnic or beach for a special treat, making sundaes or cones.

Broccoli good alone or combined

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Broccoli is served as a solo vegetable by many and is delicious as such. However, it combines well with a variety of food to make exciting new dishes. Broccoli has been popular since it was first introduced into England in the early 18th century. For a spring treat try a Broccoli Spoon Bread, a casserole dish using fresh broccoli. It is particularly good with ham. When cooking fresh broccoli, slit the stem in a couple places to hasten its cooking otherwise the delicate flowers will cook more quickly than the stems.

BROCCOLI SPOON BREAD

- 1 bunch broccoli
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1/2 cup yellow cornmeal
- 2 eggs, separated

- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon sugar

To prepare broccoli, cut off large leaves and the bottom of the stalk. Wash well. If stalks are more than 1/2 inch in diameter, make 2 lengthwise slits almost to the flowerets. Cook broccoli, uncovered, in boiling salted water to cover until tender, about 15 minutes. Drain, reserving 1/2 cup liquid for Parmesan Sauce. In medium saucepan, gradually stir milk into cornmeal. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat; cool slightly. Beat egg yolks until well mixed. Add to cornmeal mixture along with baking powder, salt and sugar; mix well. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into cornmeal mixture. Arrange broccoli, stems to center, in a well-greased 1 1/2-quart casserole or baking dish. Pour cornmeal batter over broccoli, smoothing it over the broccoli and to the edge of the casserole. Bake in 375-degree oven 45 to 50 minutes, until golden brown. Serve with Parmesan Sauce. Makes 4 servings.

PARMESAN SAUCE

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1/2 cup broccoli liquid (reserved from cooking broccoli)
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon white pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg

Melt butter in small saucepan. Stir in cornstarch to form a smooth paste. Gradually stir in milk. Place over low heat and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened and comes to a boil. Cook 3 minutes longer, continuing to stir. Add cheese a little at a time, stirring until melted. Stir in broccoli liquid, salt, pepper and nutmeg. Heat. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

North bids when East should

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's hand should serve as a perfect example of incorrect bidding.

North started by opening one club instead of one diamond. With two five-card suits you open the higher-ranking except when your two suits are spades and clubs.

East's spade overall was sound to say the least, and South's two-diamond call eminently correct. We can't find much wrong with West's jump to three spades, although some players would have gone one higher.

North's four-spade cue bid was a trifle too much for his hand, but it worked to the extent that East with his tremendous hand pulled in his horns, buried his head in the sand like the ostrich and refused to make any further bids.

South's five-club call was fine. In fact, we can find nothing wrong with anything South did.

If North had simply bid five diamonds he would really have come out in good shape. After West's normal opening lead of the fourth-best spade, South would make that game contract. As it was, South had to struggle unsuccessfully at six.

If East had just been thinking about what his partner might be holding he would surely have bid six spades. This contract would have wheeled in with just normal careful play.

Fellowship will sponsor luncheon

The women Aglow Fellowship of Sterling are sponsoring a luncheon at the YWCA of Sterling on Wednesday at 1 p.m. The cost of the luncheon will be $2.25 and a free-will offering will be taken for the speaker. A nursery will be provided at a cost of 50 cents per child.

Mrs. Irma Maust, a dynamic spirit-filled Christian from Pennsylvania, will be the speaker. She is a Mennonite housewife and grandmother who has a blessed speaking ministry and has served at Abundant Living Retreats. She will have many practical suggestions on how to live the Christian life and how to gain a closer walk with our Lord.

For reservations for the luncheon or information call Mrs. Fern Schuchard, 625-0749, or Mrs. Sharron Consuelos, 626-2655. Reservations or cancellations must be in by Monday. Also please make reservations for nursery service too, so enough attendants will be available.

Tickets are picked up and paid for at the door. Any cancellations not called in by Monday must be paid for, otherwise the Fellowship will be billed for them.

The July 11 luncheon of Women Aglow Fellowship will present Dr. B. G. Drake Jr., Evangelist and world-traveler who recently returned from India and has been ministering this week at the Open Bible Church of Sterling.

Miss Oberle receives Betty Crocker Award

MISS DOREEN OBERLE

Doree Oberle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Oberle of Rt. 1, Dixon was recipient of the Betty Crocker Search for Leadership Award at the Honors Assembly Tuesday at the Dixon High School. This award is open to all young men and women who are high school seniors throughout the country. Doree received the highest score on the Betty Crocker test administered at Dixon High School.

Doree has also been very active in music during her four years at Dixon High and has participated in Concert Band, Wind Ensemble, Robed Choir and Twelve Bells. She also participated in the District and All-State Music Festivals. Doree has played in the pit orchestra for the musicals "No, No, Nanette" and "1776." Playing the flute has also been an activity during the summer with the Dixon Municipal City Band. Doree, a member of the National Honor Society, plans to continue her education after graduation.

Polly's Pointers

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I would like some pointers about cleaning the gold baroque around the inside of a very old picture frame.

Also, one of my Pet Peeves is to buy chicken parts, breasts and thighs, only to find large amounts of fat tucked under the folds. I usually skin chicken before cooking and know I have to pay for that but all that extra fat — NO. — MRS. W. S.

DEAR MRS. W.S. — You say "gold" but I am presuming you really mean "gilt" with which many old pictures frames were decorated. To clean gilt moisture a pad of cheesecloth with a solution of equal parts of ammonia and denatured alcohol. Apply to a small area at a time with as little pressure as possible, use a dry pad to take up the soil and then go to the next area. Never rub.

Recently after cleaning the gilt frame to a large mirror I dabbed lemon oil furniture polish (did not have any plain lemon oil) all over the gilt to prevent any flaking of the gilt. It is good for gilt to use lemon oil once or twice a year. Do not rub, just pat it on.

As for your Pet Peeve consider it an extra bonus and render the fat to use for broth or making soup. — POLLY.

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am a boy, 15. I started to smoke pot about two years ago. It was fun and I didn't see that it was doing me any harm. About 11 months ago I got into pot real heavy and couldn't seem to stop even though a lot of the so-called experts said it wasn't addictive.

I began to get scared when I couldn't remember where I put things and blanked out on addresses and telephone numbers that used to come easy.

Three months ago I decided to quit cold when it became apparent to me that I was in serious trouble at school. My grades were going to hell. I was flunking three subjects.

It's been 92 days since I've had a joint but at times I still feel high. My schoolwork has improved but it's nowhere near what it was two years ago. I'm very touchy about things that didn't use to bother me. And I still have some very crazy dreams.

I hope you will print my letter so those cats who haven't tried pot will leave it alone. The worst mistake I ever made in my life was experimenting with that lousy stuff. It messed me up plenty. I just hope to God I get back to normal soon. — Wised Up Too Late

Dear Friend: Thanks for a letter that might prove very helpful to "those cats" who haven't tried it. According to everything I've read, your chances for getting back to normal are good. I suggest counseling in the meantime. It might help hasten the process. Good luck to you.

Dear Ann Landers: A reader wrote in and said she knew for a fact that if you talk nicely to plants and play pretty music they will flourish. Another reader wrote and asked if the opposite was true—if a person yelled at weeds would it stunt their growth?

Your answer was, "There is no evidence that yelling at weeds will do them any harm."

You ought to read up on the subject, Ann. I have and it is very interesting. Thousands of people swear they have had a lot of success talking to plants. They also claim music can make a big difference. Harsh rock and roll can wither a plant if the sound is loud and persistent. On the other hand, when Liszt and Mozart are played the plants grow very nicely, even after they have been given up for dead.

So PLEASE check your facts before you hand out advice. — Plant Lover in Miami

Dear Lover: Thanks for an interesting letter but you didn't deal with the central issue. The question was, "Will yelling at weeds stunt their growth?" I said, "No"—and I STILL say no.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell your readers that when they have a family problem the best thing to do is sit down with a pencil and paper and write it all down. Tell it to the stationery. Stay away from the telephone and don't unload on friends.

I made the mistake of confiding in a person I would have bet my life on. She told HER best friend and now I'm in real trouble. Paper can't talk and boy, am I sorry I didn't learn that lesson long ago. Sign me—Big Mouth

Dear Mouth: Take your lumps and chalk it up to experience. Some people NEVER learn. They make the same mistakes over and over.

PEACHES

Keep a good supply of canned cling peaches, both halves and slices, on hand for quick and nutritious salads and desserts. A favorite dessert is a dish of canned cling peach halves accompanied by a wedge of angel food cake.

Improvements for the bathroom

If it hadn't been for a leaking pipe and a waterstained living room ceiling this handsome changeover might have been postponed another 12 months.

"We wanted to redo the baths when we moved in three years ago," explains the owner, "but with the expenses of moving and the new mortgage, we told ourselves we'd make do 'for a while.' I couldn't be more pleased that the broken pipe precipitated our bath remodeling."

Built in 1799, the Connecticut house had probably been through several bath remodelings before the current owners bought it. "We were so sick of the maroon tub and toilet installed by the last owner. I can't imagine that that color was ever 'in.' And our tile design: Pink hearts on a white background—it was unbelievable!"

"The children's bath was worse. The shower was an old-fashioned metal stall and at the sink there were two faucets and two spouts.

"We're pleased about the new baths in another way. While the remodeling was hardly cheap — nothing is today — we managed it without breaking our budget. Probably could have done so initially, but we were reluctant to start asking about remodeling prices."

Costs were held down for another reason. While much of the old piping had to be replaced, the new plan needed only one new piping run — to a second basin. By not changing the remaining fixture locations, much costly behind-the-walls work was eliminated.

New white fixtures throughout both baths sparkle with crystal-and-chrome faucets and are a strength in setting off the basic spring green of the master bath (above and left) and the soft blues in the children's bath. Color and material choices were made with the assistance of House Beautiful Furnishings Editor Kathleen Mahoney.

The Doctor says:

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB— I'd like to know if the body's electrolytes go off balance because of too high acid and low alkaline or too high alkaline and low acid. Or, doesn't the acid base have anything to do with electrolytes? How can a person have respiratory acidosis and renal alkalosis?

DEAR READER— You must have been doing your homework to ask a question like that. Yes, the electrolytes and the acid base balance of the body are all inter-related.

The electrolytes refer to the salts of the body, specifically sodium and chlorine, potassium and the bicarbonate levels, plus a number of others.

I guess the simplest way to explain it is that these must be in balance with each other and loss of one may increase or decrease another to maintain a balance. The bicarbonate is a particularly important part of it. The ratio of bicarbonate and carbonic acid is a main balance mechanism to keep the body at a fairly constant acid base ratio which we call the pH.

When a person has lung disease he will have trouble eliminating carbon dioxide. This, combined with water, forms carbonic acid. An excess of carbonic acid in relation to bicarbonate on this basis is respiratory acidosis.

The lungs then are one of the body's main ways of controlling the acid base balance. If you breathe too rapidly or overventilate, you blow off too much carbon dioxide, lower the acid level, and the result is respiratory alkalosis. If you retain too much carbon dioxide, the opposite occurs to cause respiratory acidosis.

The kidneys are another mechanism to control the acid base balance. When you need to eliminate excess acid, it is often done through the kidneys, ending up as eliminating various acid salts.

In advanced or uncontrolled diabetes, the kidney is severely taxed to eliminate the excess acid formation, and when it fails to do so acidosis results.

The lungs and the kidneys normally work together to help maintain a narrow range of pH or acid base balance. Either one can be effected by disturbance of function or disease leading to a basic chemical imbalance. Too much sodium, too much chloride or not enough, and other electrolyte imbalances can all affect this delicate balance necessary for normal life functions.

DEAR DR. LAMB— My husband is in his early 60s. He always did drink, but in the last year he is drinking more than ever. I told him if he keeps that up he'd become an alcoholic. He said he couldn't become an alcoholic at his age any more. Is he right?

DEAR READER— No. You can become an alcoholic at any age with a little too much practice.

An occasional cocktail is not likely to cause healthy people any serious problem, but regular drinking sooner or later has a habit of increasing in amount to levels no longer suitable for good health. Alcohol is a hidden, and sometimes not so hidden, factor in a large number of people's medical problems.

People in the news

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hugh C. Tosteson, 14, of Puerto Rico has won the 48th National Spelling Bee by spelling incisor correctly.

Tosteson, representing the San Juan Star, defeated Mark Ogle, 14, of Indianapolis, representing the Indianapolis News, in Thursday's finals.

Mark misspelled brilliantine, a correct word for a hair preparation.

Hugh won a trophy and $1,000 for placing first in the event sponsored by the Scripps Howard newspapers.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — President Ford's son, Steve, will spend his summer learning how to wrestle steers, bust broncs and rope calves.

The President's 19-year-old son, his youngest, is expected to take rodeo lessons from former star Casey Tibbs during a four-day visit at San Diego Country Estates starting June 14.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Francis Ford Coppola, the Academy Award-winning producer of "The Godfather" and "Godfather Part II," has been named "Alumnus of the Year" by the University of California at Los Angeles.

Coppola received a master's degree in motion pictures from UCLA's Theatre Arts Dept. in 1967. He entered UCLA in 1960 after completing his undergraduate work at Hofstra University.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A French supersonic Concorde carrying 70 French personalities, including President Giscard d'Estaing's daughter, arrived here on a test run and for a special presentation of a television award. Valerie Anne Giscard d'Estaing spent the afternoon in the rain and fog, visiting some of Rio's tourist spots.

The group was scheduled to attend a television party at the home of television owner and newspaper publisher Robert Marinho.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — America's world leadership in basic scientific research is dwindling to the point that the nation faces a future technology gap, RCA chairman Robert Sarnoff said today.

Sarnoff said the slippage of U.S. technological leadership was due to "sheer drift" in government, a lack of public awareness and hostility by "a narrow-minded coterie" he did not further identify.

"Taking all our research and development spending as a percentage of gross national product, we have witnessed a decline from 3 per cent in 1965 to 2.2 per cent last year," Sarnoff said in a commencement address at the University of Southern California. The industrialist received an honorary doctor of law degree during the ceremonies.

CHERRY POINT, N. C. (AP) — Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger has nominated Maj. Gen. Leslie E. Brown for promotion to lieutenant general and for reassignment as chief of staff of the U.S. Marine Corps. Brown's new assignment, announced Thursday, was regarded as significant because Brown is only the second aviator to hold the Marine Corps' third highest post.

Dixon, Rochelle included in airport program

SPRINGFIELD— Illinois Transportation Secretary Langhorne Bond Friday announced a statewide airport development program for fiscal year 1976 totaling $57.4 million.

Exclusive of the O'Hare International projects, funding for airport improvements will increase by $2.7 million over fiscal 1975, which is nearly a 7 per cent increase.

In announcing the program Bond said, "The airport development program has been integrated with the Department's other transportation programs in an effort to develop a balanced transportation system for Illinois."

All of the projects selected are federally aided projects and were programmed on the basis of level of service provided to the local community, such as providing airport service for the La Salle-Peru area; improved safety through grants for fire-crash facilities and improved navigational aids; and increasing capacity at airports with high volumes of traffic through apron expansions and runway extensions.

"There is no state-only program for airports as was proposed under Governor Dan Walker's Accelerated Building Program since the legislature has disapproved the entire Accelerated Building Program," Bond said. "Virtually all of the Accelerated Airport Building projects do not qualify for federal funds, but they are still needed improvements for local communities."

"As an example, we will not be able to undertake hangar repairs at Aurora Municipal Airport. The needed paving around hangar areas at Baldwin Field in Quincy had to be dropped and $1.5 million worth of projects at Springfield's Capital Airport also was cut by the legislature."

The projects listed, with the exception of the O'Hare International Airport projects, are funded 75 per cent on the basis of the federal Airport Development Program (ADAP) funds, 12.5 per cent Series B Bond funds and a contribution of 12.5 per cent from the local community. The O'Hare projects are funded with 50 per cent federal funds and 50 per cent local, under a special provision of federal law. State approval is required.

Bond said Dan Walker has placed top priority in getting the second major St. Louis airport at Waterloo, Illinois. The program released today includes $8.4 million in State matching funds that would be expended to match $8.4 million in federal monies to begin land-banking as soon as federal approval is received.

The following list of projects and their estimated cost include:

Dixon, extend runway, land acquisition, landing aid, $276,800;

Rochelle, runway lighting and landing aids, $63,200;

Sterling-Rock Falls, White-side Co., overlay runway, $120,000, and perimeter fencing, $80,000.

Lip cut as car leaves road

OREGON — Carl N. Terpening, 66, Shannon, suffered a cut lip in a one-car accident Friday on Ill. 64, two miles west of Oregon.

According to Ogle County Sheriff's Police, Terpening was traveling west on the highway when his car crossed the center line and left the pavement striking a fence at the Alvin Rausch residence. Police cited Terpening with improper lane usage. He was not hospitalized.

Accused on check charge

Wilbur Robert Remmers, 45, 629 N. Dixon Ave., was arrested by Dixon police Friday and charged with theft by deception.

The charge stems from a complaint from Donald Wendt of the Trailside Package and Lounge that Remmers issued bad checks on Jan. 25 and 28 amounting to $70.

Remmers was released on bond pending a June 26 court appearance.

Nod to 4 zoning changes

Four zoning petitions were recommended for approval by the Lee County Zoning Board of Appeals Thursday night.

Special use petitions were okayed for Lowell S. Meeks in Harmon Township and Paul W. Bonnell in Dixon Township.

Petitions for conversion from AG-1 to AG-2 for livestock confinement feeding purposes were okayed for J. Howard and Harry Quick in both Nachusa Township and Ashton Township. However, a third petition to convert from AG-1 to AG-2 for building a confinement feeding area was postponed because of objections by a neighboring family. The Zoning Board will visit the site in question, one mile north of Ashton, off Ill. 38, July 1 at 6:45 p.m., to investigate the objections and make a final recommendation. The four petitions which were approved will be presented before the Lee County Board on July 8 for final approval.

Legislature will meet deadline

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Illinois House Speaker William A. Redmond says he is confident the legislature will meet its next deadline for consideration of bills still in committee.

"Can you believe it? Can you believe what good shape we're in?" Redmond asked a newsman shortly after the General Assembly recessed Friday for the weekend.

The House and Senate have adopted a rule that calls for completion of committee work on all but appropriations bills by June 13.

As of Friday morning, Redmond said, there were 775 bills remaining before the House, and that less than 200 of those were before the 22 standing committees.

Some legislators contend, however, that the deadlines are meaningless because many of the bills which have been considered represent only minor changes in laws affecting special interest groups.

Still remaining before the legislature are controversial bills to reapportion the state's congressional districts, impose limits on the amount that can be recovered from doctors in malpractice suits, establish a system of no-fault automobile insurance and appropriate most of Gov. Daniel Walker's $10.8 billion fiscal 1976 budget.

Before recessing Friday, the House sent legislation to the governor that would:

—Lower the age requirement for school board members from 21 to 18.

—Allow persons who are both township supervisors and county board members to hold both positions until after township elections in 1977. Atty. Gen. William Scott had ruled earlier that it was illegal for two such offices to be held by the same person.

—Appropriate about $470,000 to the Department of Registration and Education to pay its employees and bills through June 30.

Meanwhile, a bill providing money for the Illinois Department of Labor in the fiscal year beginning July 1 stalled in the Senate.

Several senators voted against the bill saying they were opposed to including funds

Arrested in phone incidents

OREGON — George L. Schrader, 55, Oregon, was arrested Friday by Oregon Police on a charge of disorderly conduct. The charge stemmed from an Ogle County warrant accusing Schrader of making a disturbing telephone call to Robert Folk, Oregon.

Schrader was released on bond and scheduled to appear in court June 13.

Drunk charges against two

Two area men were arrested for driving while intoxicated by state police early this morning.

Edwin Yingling, 20, Rt. 3, was picked up in Dixon. He was released on bond pending a July 8 court date.

Ralph Lanthorn, 62, Rochelle, was apprehended at the intersection of U.S. 51 and Perry Road. He was released on bond pending a July 8 court date.

Tavern incident brings arrest

Robert Grennan, 21, Amboy, was arrested by Lee County Sheriff's deputies early this morning and charged with disorderly conduct. The arrest followed a fighting incident at the Dog House Tavern in Amboy.

Grennan was released on bond. He is to appear in court June 26.

Car collision brings ticket

Chris W. Wisner, 21, 418 S. Galena Ave., was ticketed for improper lane usage following a Friday morning accident.

According to police, George W. Buck, 58, Quasqueton, Iowa, was turning right onto E. Seventh St., from Galena Avenue, when Wisner pulled up to the right of the truck. He was caught between the truck and the curve as the truck turned.

Amboy is conservation teacher of the year

AMBOY — The Lee County Soil and Water Conservation District Board announced that Gary Carlson, social studies teacher at Amboy High School, has been chosen Lee County Conservation Teacher of the Year.

Carlson, on the faculty at Amboy High for the past seven years, teaches 20th Century United States History, Political Behavior, Social Behavior, and World Studies.

Conservation education is incorporated in various ways in his classroom; partly through the use of pictures, wall maps and charts, audio and visual materials, and field trips. The past year his students visited the Inlet swamp and viewed the dredging and draining processes. He also uses articles from the Wildlife Federation, the Environmental Protection Agency, and soil and topographic maps from the Soil Conservation Service.

His students are encouraged to become involved politically in conservation issues by writing letters to their congressmen. Their most recent project was the lobbying for conservation legislation that would make all beer and soft drink containers returnable. Present conservation problems and environmental issues such as zoning and land use, strip-mining, ground water pollution and nuclear generating plants, and the historical roots of the conservation movement in the United States are actively discussed and taught in Carlson's classes. His World Studies class deals with environmental issues as part of their study of world regions.

Locally, Carlson helped to Playground program to begin Wednesday

The Dixon Park District summer playground program will begin Wednesday, lasting for a period of seven weeks. The playgrounds will be open from 9 to noon, 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., with an exception of Monday mornings, 9:30 a.m. due to weekly staff meetings.

The supervised playground program provides children, minimum age — first grader, an opportunity to participate in a variety of activities aimed at meeting their diversified interests. Qualified staff personnel will supervise the four parks: Washington—Lori Walder and Rosemary Vaile; Jefferson—Jan Camery and Suzi Ames; Lincoln—Kathy Cook and Harry Grove; Smith—Eileen Madden.

A fee of $1 per child covers activities for the entire summer. Registration is at each of the playground locations Wednesday through June 18. The registration is essential for three reasons: The staff becomes familiar with the children sooner, in case of an emergency we know who to contact, and the fees must be collected.

The parks will be open Monday through Friday. If the particular playground has gone on a field trip, there will be no supervision.

The Rollin Recreation Program will also begin Wednesday. This is a program in which a recreation supervisor, Janet Walker, will bring an assortment of athletic equipment, craft materials, and ideas for a variety of games and special events. This "Playground on Wheels," will be rolled into action in three different locations during the week. Activities will include sports, art, crafts, and a few surprises. The unit will stop at: Ballou—Tuesday and Thursday; Dixon—Monday; St. Anne's—Wednesday and Friday.

The time each day will be from 9 a.m. to noon, 1 p.m. to 3:30. There is a fee of 50 cents to cover the cost of materials used daily for the seven weeks. Registration is the first week, and the minimum age is first grade.

Youth is arrested

OREGON — A 17-year-old Oregon youth was being held in Ogle County jail today following his arrest by Oregon Police on multiple charges. Pat A. Doyle, was charged with possession of liquor as a minor, obstructing a police officer, disorderly conduct and battery by officers following an incident in Oregon. Doyle was scheduled to appear in court Monday before Associate Judge Alan Cargerman for arraignment.

Sterling driver given ticket

William R. Lovaas, 23, Sterling, was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident Friday afternoon.

Lovaas was northbound on Chicago Avenue when he ran into the rear of a car driven by Howard K. Miller, 59, Amboy, who had stopped for the stop sign at Franklin Grove Road.

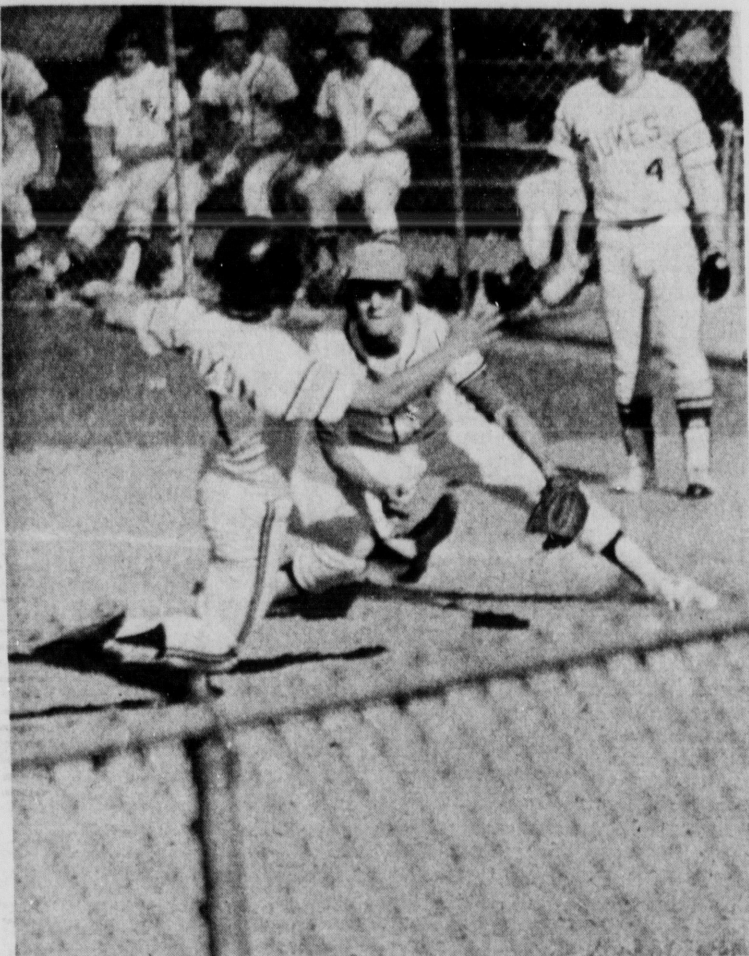

organize the Environmental Protection Committee for Lee County to prevent environmentally deleterious landfill expansion. He also participated in lobbying activities for the safe use of pesticides and herbicides.

Foster gamble pays off for Reds again

CINCINNATI (AP) — The answer to today's trivia question is George Foster. What was the question? By 1980, it might be something like this: Who was the reserve outfielder for the Cincinnati Reds whose insertion in the lineup moved Pete Rose to third?

Foster's been the answer to another question too. It's been one month since Manager Sparky Anderson gambled on the revamped lineup.

His managerial stratagem paid off again Friday night, with Foster crashing his ninth homer of the year to propel the Reds to their 13th victory in the last 16 games.

"We were going nowhere. We had to get George in there," said Anderson after Cincinnati's 5-1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs, who fell out of first place in the Eastern Division.

Foster, who may be the hottest No. 8 batter in anyone's lineup, gave Don Gullett a 2-0 lead in the second inning and the young lefthander protected it with a five-hitter to boost his record to 7-3.

"He's always had the ability," said Anderson of Foster. "In all fairness to him, he just needed the playing time. He reminds people of Bobby Bonds."

Foster moved within two homers of league-leading teammate Johnny Bench, despite playing in 12 fewer games and being handicapped by his lowly position in the batting order.

"All I'm getting are low pitches and off-speed stuff. Nobody wants to throw good pitches to the No. 8 man," said the 26-year-old Californian.

He's also destroying a tag that he feels was unfairly attached.

"A lot of people have said I can't hit breaking balls," said Foster, who is batting a solid .280.

Gullett withstood a shaky start when he loaded the bases in the first inning, then settled down to notch his third straight victory.

Despite his fast start, he's avoids thinking about a 20-victory season.

"I start each season with goals, but most of them are based on improving all phases of my pitching. I figure the wins will take care of themselves," said Gullett, who has won 16, 18 and 17 games in the past four years.

He says he feels stronger than in past seasons and his six complete games attest to his stamina.

"I've never completed this many games this early before. I really feel like everything's coming together," he said.

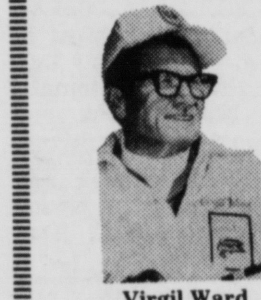

Gullett got backing from Johnny Bench's sacrifice fly for a 3-0 lead and Dave Concepcion's eighth-inning single padded the margin.

Gullett's shutout string of 14 scoreless innings ended in sixth when Jose Cardenal and Bill Madlock had consecutive bloop singles and Andy Thornton provided a sacrifice fly.

HOW TO LEARN MORE ABOUT FISHING

We receive many letters from viewers of our weekly television series stating that they have greatly improved their fishing by watching our show. One of the best ways to learn to fish is to go fishing every chance you get. Seems like the things you learn while fishing stay with you longer.

Another way to learn to become a more successful fisherman is to read books and outdoor columns by fishing experts. Watch every fishing show you can. You'll see a new species of fish being caught, a new lure demonstrated, new equipment being used and observe new methods you too can use.

There are many fine outdoor editors across the country, fellows like Fred May of San Antonio, Tex.; Ray Gray of Chicago; Dave Harbour and his son Doug; Myron Fischer, and the list goes on and on.

Probably 98 per cent of these fellows are sincere, hard-working writers who know what they are writing about. Once in awhile, though, you will find one such as a self-styled woods and waters expert who gets his information second-hand and rarely ever ventures forth from his plush office. When he does go fishing, it is usually in controlled water, which in reality is a fish hatchery! This same woods-and-waters expert has his hand out to nearly every fishing tackle manufacturing company and when they don't come across with merchandise or money, he takes a verbal swing at them.

I think this type of individual was the namesake for a fishing device. And one we could do without. It is a spring-loaded reel that is hung over the water from a limb. When a fish tries to take the bait he triggers a spring which jerks him up out of the water! It's a disgusting sight to see a nice bass hanging just out of the water awaiting a fisherman who often never calls the device is aptly called a "yo-yo"!

We received a letter recently that was critical of the way we return fish to the water. This writer stated that to throw a fish back into the water would kill it or injure it so that later it will die. We don't advocate ever throwing a fish back. We drop it back or gently toss it back, but the theory that this will injure a fish is just not true. If it were, then fish that leap high into the air to try to climb a water fall or leap out of the water for any reason would in effect be committing suicide. High mountain lakes in the Rockies are stocked by dropping trout out of airplanes without apparent harm.

When landing big fish such as lake trout that we wish to return to the water, we lift them by the gill cover, being careful not to touch the gills. There is plenty of room to get your fingers between the gill cover and the gills. Other fish such as walleye that you intend to return can be handled by pressing the gill covers firmly between the thumb and fingers, being careful not to let the fish slip, as the gill plates are razor sharp. Pressing the gill plates firmly momentarily paralyzes the fish and keeps him from moving. The safest way is to use a net. A bass, however, can easily be handled by grasping the lower jaw.

Wherever possible we use only single-hook lures. At times we even press the barb down. Single-hook lures do little damage to the mouth of a fish. Top-water lures with several treble hooks are popular but they can damage a fish's mouth and cause a lot of tangles in a landing net.

Most of all of the guests, friends and guides we've fished with have a sincere appreciation for the sport and practice true conservation in their fishing. We all realize that being able to fish in clean, clear waters and taking, keeping or releasing a day's catch is a privilege. A privilege which must be respected by the users. Someone once said, "The best way to truly get to know a person is to fish with them for a day." I'd have to agree.

Good luck with your fishing!

Archers are victims of 4-0 shutout

Dan Domski fired a strong two hit shutout while fanning 18 batters as Mecum Pontiac from Marengo downed the Dixon Archers 4-0 in baseball action at Reynolds Field Friday night. The loss is the first of the season for the Archers against one win.

Dixon starting pitcher Kirk Peterson allowed only four hits in his six innings of work, and two unearned fourth inning runs paved the way for Domski and Marengo.

In the visitor's half of the fourth Mark King and Terry Wilson reached safely on back-to-back errors by the Archer infield. King scored on the second error that went through first baseman Chuck Webster down the rightfield line. Wilson was thrown out at second base trying to stretch the gift by right fielder Tom Webster. The second run of the frame crossed the plate on a wild pitch.

Wilson doubled home King in the sixth inning with a shot to right center giving Mecum a 3-0 advantage. Brad Kreger scored the fourth and final run of the game as the Marengo catcher left off the seventh inning with a base on balls and scored on a throwing error by Archer catcher Rick Hazelwood.

Dixon batters went down swinging 18 times against the right-handed Domski. The Mecum fireballer struck out the side four of the nine innings, and walked only three batters in the complete game performance. Peterson fanned three and walked five in his six innings of mound action for Dixon.

Gary Oswalt doubled to left in the fourth frame and Rick Shroyer singled in the ninth to account for the Archer's two hits.

Dixon will attempt to better its 1-1 record against Orangeville Tuesday night at Reynolds Field as the Archers are scheduled to take the field at 8 p.m.

Vander Meer doubts Ryan will equal feat

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Johnny Vander Meer says he'd be proud to have a pitcher of the calibre of Nolan Ryan tie his record of successive no-hit games.

But he doubts Ryan will do it. "If you go by percentages, I'd say the time isn't due yet," said Vander Meer, who was a hard-throwing 22-year-old southpaw for the Cincinnati Reds when he performed his still-unduplicated feat in 1938 against the Boston Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers.

"It was from the 1800s until 1938 before I did it," added Vander Meer, now 61 and a sales manager for a beer firm. "I was in the hot seat," he recalled. "I had a lot of hard hit balls, but everybody was playing in the right places at the right times. You've got to get some breaks to do anything that breaks a record.

"But records are made to be tied and made to be broken," Vander Meer said. "Ryan's a pretty good one. If he does it, it's good for the game and all right with me."

Ryan, the California Angels' flamethrowing right-hander came pretty close Friday night. He went 5 2-3 innings before Milwaukee's great Henry Aaron lined a single into left-center field. Ryan wound up with a two-hitter and a 6-0 victory over the Brewers.

It was the second time Ryan has seriously threatened to match Vander Meer. Two years ago he no-hit Detroit and, in his next start, baffled Baltimore until Mark Belanger blooped a single to short center field in the eighth inning.

Vander Meer, who often struck out 200 or more batters a year, said it will take someone like Ryan to equal his feat.

"It's going to take somebody who's a power type of pitcher to do it," he said. "Ryan's a pitcher of this type, very much so. He's a hard thrower and strikes out a lot of guys."

Even if Ryan succeeds, Vander Meer figures he'll remain in the record books because, as he put it, "It's one of those records that can be tied, but I don't think it could be broken."

Yanks stay hot

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The New York Yankees are hot—as hot as they've been in three years. Wilbur Wood is cold—as cold as he's been in his career.

The two factions combined Friday night and produced a 5-1 Yankee victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The Yankees have won six in a row, matching their longest streak of last season and are aiming at the eight straight they won in 1973.

Wood, a 20-game winner for the White Sox the last four seasons after being switched from a relief pitcher to a starter by Manager Chuck Tanner, suffered his 10th loss against only two triumphs.

Rudy May scattered nine hits and rolled to his sixth triumph against two defeats. The big blast for the Yankees was Bob Bonds' 13th homer, a two-run shot in the second inning which gave the Yankees a 4-0 lead.

"They had a couple of chances but failed to get the big hit which would put them back into the game," said Yankee Manager Bill Virdon. "May had better control tonight. Most of his control trouble has been in the early innings. He began throwing strikes about the fifth inning."

May attributed his success to the play of his teammates.

"The club has been playing tremendous behind me," said the 30-year-old left-hander. "Every time I look up, they've gotten me four, five or six runs. Then I can concentrate on throwing strikes."

What about Wilbur Wood who won 90 games for the White Sox in the last four seasons?

"I'm not about to quit on him yet," said Tanner. "He's proved to me for the last four years that he's a winner."

"When a guy is down it's a natural reaction for people to want to step on him," said Tanner.

Henry and Corrie

ROBINSON—Two members of the Venice basketball team, the 1975 Class A state champions, have decided to attend Lincoln Trail Junior College in Robinson, officials announced Friday. Center Ron Henry and guard Jeff Corrie signed letters of intent to attend the two-year school. The duo led Venice to a 32-2 record last season and a triumph over Timothy Christian in the state finals.

Americans starting to spend again

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Americans are starting to spend again, loosening the purse strings after more than a year of caution caused by soaring prices and uncertainty over the future of the economy.

The signs are small ones and the indicators are far from unanimous. But recent reports show that consumers apparently are heeding the advice of those economists and politicians who have been urging people to spend their way out of recession.

Retail business picked up last month; so did car sales, although they were still at a 14-year low. Businesses are spending more for equipment. Government indexes on the economy provided encouragement for the experts.

Tax rebates were credited with providing some of the stimulus. The rate of inflation has been lower; consumer confidence is rising.

No one knows how many Americans will spend the rebate checks they are getting from the federal government and how many will simply put the money into savings accounts. The total of the rebates is estimated at $8.1 billion.

Dr. Elsie Watters, research director for the nonprofit Tax Foundation Inc., predicted more than half of the money refunded to taxpayers will be spent on consumer goods.

Dr. Watters said the economy already had shown signs of improvement. She said the rebate "is the icing on the cake."

Irwin Kellner, an economist at Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., said the tax rebate checks — being mailed at the rate of 13 million a week — were a factor in May increases in retail sales.

Sears Roebuck & Co., the nation's biggest retailer, reported Thursday that sales in May were 2.2 per cent higher than they were in the same month a year ago. The figures were unadjusted for inflation.

J.C. Penney Co. said May sales were 7 per cent higher than last year's and Montgomery Ward Co. reported a 4 per cent boost.

Here is a look at some of the indicators and what is happening to them:
AUTO SALES: U.S. carmakers sold 16 per cent more cars during May than they did during April. Total domestic sales were at their highest level for any month since last October.

CONSUMER CREDIT: The Federal Reserve Board reported that Americans trimmed their debts again in April, but the decrease in outstanding debt was much lower than it was the previous month. Increases and decreases in the amount of debt provide some indication of whether people are spending or simply paying off their bills and putting money in savings.

WHOLESALE PRICES: The Labor Department said Thursday that wholesale prices increased four-tenths of one per cent in May, compared with a 1.5 per cent increase in April and decreases in the preceding four months.

DURABLE GOODS ORDERS: The Commerce Department said an April increase in purchases of machinery and other durable goods by manufacturers was the largest rise in more than seven years. Orders for durable goods rose nearly $3.5 billion, or 9.8 per cent, in April.

HOUSING: The government said the number of new housing unit starts increased in April, although the level remained well below 1974. There also was a sharp increase in the amount of money loaned for mortgages during April.

INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTION: The Federal Reserve Board said the output of the nation's industry fell four-tenths of one per cent, the smallest decline since last August.

EMPLOYMENT: The number of people employed increased in April, the first rise in seven months, although the employment figure did not grow as fast as the size of the labor force.

PERSONAL INCOME: Total individual income rose in April — the second straight month of increase. The Commerce Department said personal income for the month showed a $6.7 billion increase, compared with a $3.2 billion increase in March.

CONSUMER CONFIDENCE: The Conference Board, a non-profit research organization, said consumers are more confident about the future of the economy.

BUSINESS SPENDING: The Conference Board said the amount of money businesses are setting aside for new plants and equipment dropped 9.4 per cent during the first quarter of 1975, compared with a 26 per cent cutback in the previous three-months.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Saturday, June 7, the 158th day of 1975. There are 207 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1942, the Pacific War Battle of Midway ended in a major American victory over the Japanese.

On this date — In 1654, the coronation of Louis XIV as King of France took place at Rheims.

In 1769, Daniel Boone began his exploration of the Kentucky wilderness.

In 1862, the United States and Britain signed a treaty for suppression of the slave trade.

In 1940, in World War II, organized resistance against German invaders ended in Norway.

In 1967, in the Middle East six-day war, Israeli forces driving into Egypt reached the banks of the Suez Canal.

In 1970, heavy fighting broke out between Palestinian guerrillas and the regular army in Jordan.

Ten years ago: Actress Judy Holiday died in New York of cancer at 42.

Five years ago: Voters in Switzerland rejected a proposal to force nearly one-third of 1,000,000 aliens to leave the country.

One year ago: A Federal court in Washington gave former Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst a suspended sentence for misleading a Senate investigating committee.

Today's birthdays: Violinist Jaime Laredo is 34. Singer Tom Jones is 35. Poet Gwendolyn Brooks is 58.
